

Dear Human Kind...where are you heading?

'My wife is my daughter!!'... 'My husband is my brother!!'

Gamete and embryo donation programs are now employed as standard practice in several western countries.

So what? Why panic? It's none of our business! Is it?

Well, isn't that just what we said about cable T.V, Internet, and other western habits and commodities?

No., it's different, not everything that the west adopts, applies in an eastern conservative community.

Are you sure?

What about desperate couples, who could be persuaded that what is wrong, is not really that wrong, and that there are several ethical and religious opinions and points of view?

Is not that how it begins?

To the point, we need to fight this concept by alerting the world to the disastrous consequences of these practices. But, perhaps more importantly, we need to place strict local laws and regulations that govern and control the practice of assisted reproduction.
